The First African Conference on Information Ethics was held in South Africa during February 2007. This event took place under the auspices of UNESCO, was sponsored by the South African Government and organized by the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, University of Pretoria, University of Pittsburgh, as well as the International Centre of Information Ethics. During this event the Africa Network for Information Ethics (ANIE) was established. This was followed in 2012 by the establishment of the ACEIE at the University of Pretoria. The ACEIE focuses on the ethical challenges of the information society on the African continent as inspired by the Geneva World Summit on Information Society (WSIS) of 2003. This event formed part of the implementation of UNESCO, WSIS Action Line C10 of the Geneva Plan of Action.

In 2010 the 2nd ANIE conference was hosted in Gaborone, Botswana. The 3rd ANIE Conference took place in 2012 in Pretoria, South Africa. Themes that were covered were the Development of a curriculum to teach Information Ethics at universities in Africa and Social Media. In 2014 the 4th ANIE Conference took place in Kampala, Uganda and the focus of this conference was on Information Ethics in Africa – cross-cutting themes for managing one's digital life.
